Conference Schedule

Eastern Conference on the Teaching of Psychology
June 22 and 23, 2012

Friday, June 22

9:00-5:00  Registration and Packet Pick-up (Lobby)

9:00-5:00  Publisher Displays (Lobby)

9:30-9:45  Opening Remarks (Salons A and B)

9:45-10:45 Keynote Address (Salons A and B)

No Pain, Just Gain: Painlessly Integrating Statistical Literacy across the Psychology Curriculum
Susan Nolan, Seton Hall University

11:15-12:15 Concurrent Sessions

Salon A  What Does Angry Birds Have to Do With It: Mapping APA Learning Goals onto Introductory Psychology Topics
Sue Spaulding, University of North Carolina at Charlotte

Salon B  Teaching a Course on Controversial Topics in Psychology
Jeff Homes, Ithaca College

12:15-1:30 Lunch (Colonnade Ballroom)

1:30-2:30 Concurrent Sessions

Salon A  Let’s Help Psychology Students Become More Employable
Megan Rodgers & Michael Stoloff, James Madison University

Salon B  Constraints on the Application of Technology in Teaching
Dave MacEwen, University of Mary Washington & Kathryn Cooke, Cooke Educational Consulting

2:45-3:45 Concurrent Sessions

Salon A  Teaching Graphic Literacy in 15 Minutes
Thomas Heinzen & Sheetal Ranjan, William Paterson University; & Susan Nolan, Seton Hall University

Salon B  Motivating Students
4:15-5:15  Poster Session (Shenandoah Ballroom)
4:15-5:30  Social Hour* (Shenandoah Ballroom)

Saturday, June 23

8:00-9:00  Breakfast (24 Market/Colonnade Ballroom)
9:00-11:45 Publisher Displays (Lobby)
9:15-10:15 Keynote Address (Salons A and B)

How the Mind Works: Psychological Science in the 21st Century
John Cacioppo, University of Chicago

10:30-11:30 Participant Idea Exchange (Salon C)
11:30-12:00 Check-out for hotel guests

12:00-1:15 Lunch and General Session: “A Few of Our Favorite Things”: Activities and Demonstration for Teaching General Psychology (Salon C)

Bryan Saville, James Madison University
Sally Farley, University of Baltimore
Jessica Irons, James Madison University
Don Poe, Pfeiffer University

Dinner on Friday is not included in the program, but we encourage you to dine out in Staunton with other ETOP participants. If you don’t know anyone at the conference, the social hour on Friday afternoon is the perfect opportunity to meet some people!